YOUR ONE STOP SHOP FOR QUALITY FLEXIBLE PACKAGING

Shields is on the forefront of a new packaging concept – stretch hood technology. Our super stretch hooder film is being used to package products ranging from kitchen appliances to corrugated boxes. The automated stretch hooder offers better protection than traditional packaging, reduces packaging costs and puts your product out front where it can be seen by consumers. Our films have been approved for use on all of the major stretch hooding systems, and we have the technical expertise on both the film and the hooder equipment to help create the best packaging solutions for our customers.

Shields, a division of Novolex, can work with you to create the perfect Hooder Film for your specific requirements.
